Church-State Fight Shaping Over Non-Public School Aid

LANSING (AP) — A full-scale church-state controversy is brewing in Michigan over a proposed bill that would pay fixed amounts up to $150 to the parents of nonpublic school pupils.

Forty-eight state representatives already have signed as sponsors of the measure. The bill probably will be introduced later this week. Passage would require 56 votes. More than 60,000 letters backing the measure, costing $21 million, have flooded the offices of Gov. George Romney and legislative leaders in the past 2½ weeks.

Thousands more letters were expected as the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers prepared to do battle by urging its 300,000 members to retaliate with letters condemning the proposal.

The bill, believed, the first in the country, would authorize the state to grant $100 each for children attending nonpublic secondary schools and $50 each for those in elementary schools.

In addition, it would provide for grants of $150 for children enrolled in core city nonpublic schools and $75 each for those in core city elementary schools. Grants would be administered by the State Board of Education.

An estimated 330,000 youngsters, or one of every seven school children, now attend nonpublic schools, both church-affiliated and private.

Acting Gov. William Milliken has said he is "keeping an open mind on the subject." He currently has an attorney studying the legal and constitutional implications of the proposed legislation.

Chief sponsor of the plan is Rep. Thomas Brown, R-Lansing, an attorney and the father of five children, three now attending Catholic elementary school.

"I see no problem" over the constitutional question of separation of church and state, Representative Brown said.

"This would be like the G. I. Bill," he said. "That gives public money to an individual 18 or older for tuition. This bill would give public money to a parent for school. The parent stands in approximately the same position as a veteran of the wars."

An organization called the Committee to Aid Public Education (CAPE) and then American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) already have mentioned court action, should the measure be approved.

Proponents of the measure, including the Committee for Educational Freedom — an organization of persons affiliated with various churches — point to an increase in the number of youngsters leaving nonpublic schools each year.

Nonpublic schools save Michigan taxpayers an estimated $200 million annually in state aid, proponents say. But they add nonpublic schools face ever-increasing financial problems and some are being forced to close their doors.

State aid would help keep open nonpublic schools and thus save the taxpayers money, they maintain.

Bar Association Votes Restraint For Crime News

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Bar Association has endorsed recommendations that judges, lawyers and policemen restrict the flow of information about criminal cases.

But news officials, turned down in their plea for a year's delay for study, predicted new battles in the courts and state legislatures.

Said one, J. Edward Murray of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, "The press will have no recourse but to fight back."

The recommendations, put forward by a press-trial advisory committee headed by Justice Paul C. Reardon of Massachusetts' Supreme Judicial Court, were adopted by a voice vote Monday by the ABA's policy-setting House of Delegates.

Minutes before, the delegates turned down by a 176-68 vote an appeal by three top news executives that action be put off while studies are made of the effects on jurors of newspaper, radio and television accounts of crime.

"There is no good reason for delay," Reardon said during the two-hour debate. And J. Edward Lumbard of the U.S. Circuit Court in New York City said the news media would only return in a year with talk of new studies.

"What are the surveys going to show?" he asked. "Are they going to tell us that human nature has changed?"

Once the guidelines are incorporated into the ABA's ethics code, lawyers could run the risk of severe discipline—even disbarment—for making public during a trial opinions and information that were not part of the record.

Shielded Defendants
Police departments, meanwhile, were advised to adopt regulations chocking off from time of arrest information about prior criminal records, confessions or admissions of guilt and the result of such tests as finger printing and lie detection.

And judges were instructed not to make "any statements" that might interfere with a "fair trial."

Judges also were advised to use their contempt power against anyone, including reporters and editors, who "willfully" try to affect a verdict by disseminating statements about the defendant or the issues.

The stated objective of these limitations is to shield defendants from prejudiced jurors.

New Saigon Attack Threatened By Cong

C&NW Asks Merger OK Enemy Masses 10,000 Troops Near Viet City

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Chicago & North Western Railway and its proposed partner, the Chicago Great Western Railway, asked the Interstate Commerce Commission Monday for quick approval to merge.

The two major railroads asked the ICC in a letter to accept conditions suggested by a hearing examiner to protect the Soo Line from economic harm because of the merger.

The North Western - Great Western merger, originally approved by the ICC last April, was delayed by a federal court in Minneapolis, Minn. The court, at the request of the Soo Line, returned the merger case to the ICC for reconsideration.

In the 2½-page letter, Great Western and North Western's lawyers said they have decided not to appeal the court's decision because this would delay the merger another year.

They said the merger is "of great importance. The condition of Great Western is rapidly deteriorating."

The three conditions sought by the examiner are:

1. Granting the Soo Line the right to negotiate for direct access to Roseport, Minn., an industrial area, to permit it to serve shippers there.

2. Track rights over the present C&NW lines to permit direct interchange of freight cars with the newly merged system at Minneapolis.

3. The right to choose the method by which its freight traffic is switched to the newly merged railroad at Chicago.

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese military headquarters reported today that aerial observers had sighted several Communist antiaircraft guns menacing a section of Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Air Base. South Vietnamese bombers were sent to destroy them.

A Vietnamese spokesman said the gun positions were spotted about 2½ miles south of the air base, one of the busiest in the world, which came under heavy rocket attack Sunday during the communists' "second wave" offensive.

Unofficial reports circulated that the Communists were planning another attack tonight on the South Vietnamese capital, a city of nearly 3 million people. The Viet Cong were reported to have distributed leaflets in several sections of the Gia Dinh suburbs threatening an attack and urging the people to support them in an uprising. Police and military units already are on a full alert.

The "second wave" Communist offensive last weekend has subsided, but there was no assurance it wouldn't heat up again. Intelligence reports reaching the U.S. Mission said that in the Mekong Delta province of Kien Hoa, the Viet Cong province committee received a directive from the Communist high command to provide maximum reinforcements to support the Viet Cong in Saigon in the "second wave."

These reports said the offensive was to run from Feb. 18 until the end of the month. Launched Feb. 18, it consisted mostly of rocket and mortar attacks on Saigon and 46 other cities, with comparatively few ground assaults.

Intelligence sources said the Communists have 10,000 to 15,000 men within a day's march of Saigon, including elements of the 5th and 9th Viet Cong Divisions and the 7th North Vietnamese Division.

Amid anticipation of a new round of attacks, U.S. and South Vietnamese troops battled to drive the Viet Cong from the coastal town of Phan Thiet while other allied forces inched forward in the 21st day of the battle for Hue.

Riot Measure Tangles Senate

LANSING (AP) — The Senate began debate on its first anti-riot bill Monday night with attorneys members spending more than an hour disagreeing over whether the bill was broad enough, too broad, or even enforceable.

The bill, which stipulates that those who incite others to illegal acts during a riot could receive a prison term of up to life, finally was dropped for the day, and was likely to be discussed again today.

The measure was introduced by Sen. James Fleming as a result of hearings and investigations conducted by his special crime study committee, named after last summer's riots in Detroit and elsewhere around the state.

H. Rap Brown Is Arrested In NY; Broke Travel Ban

NEW YORK (AP) — H. Rap Brown, Black Power chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, was arrested on Manhattan's upper West Side today after he returned from making two speeches in California.

The arrest came a day after U.S. Dist. Court Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. in Richmond, Va., issued an order for Brown to appear in Richmond Friday to show why he should not be jailed for violating a court travel ban imposed on him last September.

Reapportionment In U.P. Kayoed

LANSING (AP) — The State Court of Appeals has ruled that Michigan's one-man, one-vote is unconstitutional on a county level.

The ruling resulted from an apportionment plan adopted by the Ontonagon Board of Supervisors which did not provide for one supervisor from each township.

The Appeals court said it is self-evident that this plan is in direct conflict with the Michigan Constitution and is unconstitutional.

A majority of the State Supreme Court has held, the Appeals Court said, that the State Constitution, drawn up in 1963, is constitutional.

The decision of the Appeals Court followed a request by a registered voter of the county for a review of the plan adopted by the Ontonagon Board of Supervisors.

Previously the State Supreme Court had ruled one-man, one-vote is constitutional on a statewide level.

Quake Kills 13 In Aegean Isles

ATHENS (AP) — A shattering earthquake hit the northern Sporadic Islands in the Aegean Sea early today and reports said 13 persons were killed and 18 were injured.

Hardest hit apparently was the island of Ayios Evstratios, where the 13 persons were killed and 15 injured.

The Anatolia news agency of Turkey said a woman was killed by falling debris in her home at Pergamum, 62 miles north of the Aegean Sea port of Izmir. The quake was felt over a wide area in Turkey as well as Greece.

The Greek destroyer Miaoulis reached Ayios Evstratios with tents and medical supplies and reported the casualties. It said 80 per cent of the homes on the island, a former detention camp for political exiles, were destroyed or damaged. The island now has a population of about 1,000.

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — The Coast Guard Cutter Woodbine freed herself from window ice Monday, opened the ice-clogged Grand Haven harbor and escorted two tankers through the channel.

The Woodbine had been reported stuck in 60-inch-thick ice piled up along the harbor entrance by westerly winds.

Half Of Florida School Teachers Join In Walkout

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A statewide walkout by Florida public school teachers that shut more than half a million pupils out of class Monday went into its second day today. Spokesmen said 9,000 more teachers will join the 26,000 who have quit their jobs.

A hearing was set this afternoon before Circuit Judge Ben C. Willis on the state's request for a permanent injunction to end the walkout. The Florida Education Association holds that in resigning their jobs, teachers are not violating an anti-strike law and cannot be ordered to work.

Pearson, 70, has announced he will retire this spring, and the Liberals already face a leadership race at a convention April 4-6.

Normally, the government would be forced to resign after defeat on such an important bill and the governor-general would ask a parliamentary leader to form a new government. The government also could dissolve Parliament and call new national elections.

But because of the confused circumstances of Monday's night's vote, many members of Parliament expected the government to call for a vote of confidence in Commons today.

Conservative leader Robert L. Stanfield said his party would oppose this.

Doves Work To Blast Johnson In Minneapolis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who says he isn't a presidential candidate, will head a nationwide series of Republican platform hearings arranged by his fellow GOP governors—many of whom want him to run.

The 26 Republican governors announced Monday Rockefeller will head a team of five governors, conducting hearings in late April and early May at Seattle, Wash., Albuquerque, N.M., an as-yet undesignated Midwestern city and Washington, D.C.

The stated aim is to secure grass-roots sentiment on what should be written into the platform to be adopted at the Republican National Convention.

Month Before Primary
The hearings will end less than a month before the May 28 Oregon primary—a primary Rockefeller won in his unsuccessful bid for the 1964 nomination.

Rockefeller removed himself from Nebraska's May 14 primary, submitting an affidavit of noncandidacy. This leaves Republicans Richard M. Nixon, Ronald Reagan, George Romney and Harold E. Stassen on the Nebraska ballot.

Elsewhere on the political scene:

A supporter said former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's American Independent Party had qualified for a spot on Pennsylvania's presidential ballot by obtaining 1,100 more than the required 10,552 signatures needed.

Romney, campaigning in Wisconsin, appeared to get his loudest applause when he attacked administration credibility. He also hit out again at President Johnson's Vietnam policy.

Minneapolis Test

Johnson told newsmen much of his traveling in this election year probably will be done without much advance notice. Observers assume a key factor in the travel secrecy is related to security problems.

—In Minneapolis, supporters of Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey expressed worry in interviews because rebellious Democrats backing Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy for president are working to win the March 5 party precinct caucuses that will lead to selection of convention delegates. A win for McCarthy, who opposes Johnson's Vietnam policy, would be particularly embarrassing in Minneapolis, Humphrey's home town, the Democratic loyalists said.

—McCarthy lost an appeal for free air time on the three major networks to reply to comments President Johnson made in a three-network interview Dec. 19. The U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington upheld the networks' argument that Johnson isn't an official candidate for re-election and thus equal time would not be justified.

Tax Bill Defeat May Bring New Canada Election

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's Cabinet awaited his return from Jamaica today before deciding whether to resign because the House of Commons voted down its proposed 5 per cent income tax surcharge.

In a vote that caught Pearson on vacation and his parliamentary deputies napping, 60 Conservatives, 23 minor party members and an independent combined to defeat the Liberals 84-52. The House had approved the bill in principle earlier, on the second reading, and routine final passage had been expected.

"Resign! Resign!" the Conservatives shouted.

The Cabinet held a 75-minute emergency meeting but decided not to act before Pearson returned this afternoon, cutting short a winter vacation.

Pearson, 70, has announced he will retire this spring, and the Liberals already face a leadership race at a convention April 4-6.

Normally, the government would be forced to resign after defeat on such an important bill and the governor-general would ask a parliamentary leader to form a new government. The government also could dissolve Parliament and call new national elections.

But because of the confused circumstances of Monday's night's vote, many members of Parliament expected the government to call for a vote of confidence in Commons today.

Conservative leader Robert L. Stanfield said his party would oppose this.

U.P. Fair Makes More, Spends Less

The Upper Peninsula State Fair, so many times in the past labeled "bigger and better" has truly become that in recent years, according to the Fair's annual report filed with Gov. Romney and the Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Ralph Morrow, Lansing, deputy director of agriculture, received a copy of the report when he met with Cliff Perras, secretary-manager, and the U.P. State Fair Board of Managers in Escanaba recently. The Department of Agriculture is responsible for administration of the Fair with the Board of Managers serving in an advisory capacity.

Frank Bender Jr. of Pine Ridge is chairman of the Fair Board. Other members are Mrs. Ruth Butler, Houghton; Albert Lindberg, Hessel; August Hokens, Ewen; and Henry A. Wender, Iron Mountain.

Indicating the growing success of the Fair as an outstanding entertainment attraction and a "Peninsula showcase" for advancement of industry, education and agriculture, are the statistics of the 1967 report.

More Revenues

The figures show an application of fiscal responsibility, for along with the Fair's growth is the hard cash fact that the Fair is making more money and spending less.

For example, comparison of 1966 and 1967 reveal the Fair's

Fair Dates

The U.P. State Fair will be held in Escanaba Aug. 13-18 inclusive, reports Manager Cliff Perras, who said he has received a number of inquiries about the Fair dates.

Sunday, Aug. 11, will be advance entry day for the convenience of those who are working and must bring exhibits in on the weekend; Monday is entry day; and Tuesday is official opening of the Fair.

total income increased from $61,136 to $75,018; total paid attendance went up to 54,448 — an increase of about 12,000; while the amount of premiums paid dropped from $23,000 to $22,000; and total expenditures were $123,737 — almost $1,000 below the year before.

An example of how the Fair can be made more self-supporting by the application of good business methods and yet expand the Fair program is indicated in more comparisons: Fair revenues increased from $36,281 in 1963 to $75,018 in 1967, much of this through the admission or gate charge paid by adult Fairgoers. Children 14 years and under are admitted free.

Industrial Gains

More projects and programs presenting the industrial development of the region, plus additional free entertainment in front of the grandstand, has raised the quality of the Fair and brought increased attendance.

The coho salmon, one of the most talked-about fish in Michigan, will be seen at the Fair this year in a live display, reports Manager Perras. Then with the comfort of the people in mind, 150 additional park benches will be installed on the grounds this year.

Dancing for young and old has become a Fair feature that is being expanded, Perras reported. Youth bands, square dance callers, and the music of Jan Garber will be invitations to the dance at specially designated places on the grounds.

Plan Entertainment

Fair Week in review sounds like top entertainment: The Rodeo Cowboys Association will bring three shows to the Fair — opening Monday night and continuing Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Wednesday will have its traditional Queen's Day program, plus the Battle of the Bands in which groups of young musicians will compete. The area in front of the grandstand is hoped to be blacktopped as a dancing area by Fairtime.

Tex Ritter, star of country and western songs, and his show will come to the Fair on Thursday. That dance area will be popular with square dancers also.

Friday, besides being Governor's Day, will have Jan Garber of dance band fame as a special entertainment attraction. He and his orchestra will present afternoon and evening shows.

Horse Pulling

Drum and bugle corps from around the Peninsula will be at the Fair on Saturday for Veterans' Day; and there will be programs of stock car races Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

"Then on Sunday night at the Fair we are going to show what real horse power looks like," said Perras. "This will be a horse pulling contest with teams from everywhere competing. The entries are not limited to the U.P. Then the Fair will close on Sunday night with a brilliant fireworks finale."

The Fair Board at its recent meeting also discussed whether, under the new state law, it will be necessary for the Fair to purchase public liability insurance — a costly item in the budget if it is required.

The Board met with Escanaba City Engineer John Dulek in a discussion of an easement for a sanitary sewer crossing a portion of the fairgrounds to serve the Harnischfeger Corp. truck crane plant, which is being expanded. The Board recommended to the Department of Agriculture that permission be granted.

Rev. Bell Joins Education Unit

Rev. James H. Bell, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, La Crosse, Wis., has resigned to accept a position in the division of continuing education of the clergy under the Board of Christian Education in Philadelphia, Pa.

The Rev. Mr. Bell has served there for 13 years. He came to La Crosse in November 1954 from Escanaba, where he was pastor of First Presbyterian Church for nine years.

He has served as president of the La Crosse Council of Churches and as moderator of the Presbyterian Wisconsin Synod during his pastorate there.

In 1964, his congregation gave him funds and a three-month sabbatical leave to tour Europe and the Middle East with his wife.

The Rev. Mr. Bell is a graduate of Macalester College and Yale Divinity School.

Alex Bappte, chairman of the church's personnel committee and member of the session (ruling body of the congregation) praised the Rev. Mr. Bell's "intellectual capacity and honesty" and said he had done "solid, constructive work in the whole church community."

Rev. and Mrs. Bell have three children, all born in Escanaba: Susan, who is married and has three children and lives in Madison, Wis.; William, married, has two children and lives in LaCrosse; and Kristin, who attends the University at LaCrosse.

Construction To Boost Employment In Area

Increased construction activity is expected to materially improve the labor situation in Delta and Schoolcraft counties this summer, according to James Damitz, manager of the Michigan Employment Security Commission office in Escanaba.

"This coming summer should be good, starting about April 1," Damitz said.

He reported that between 1,500 and 2,000 people are expected to be employed on construction projects in this area.

Major projects would include Mead Corp's expansion of its Escanaba paper mill, installation of new ore terminal facilities by Chicago & North Western, natural gas pipeline construction, the new low - rent housing project in Gladstone, and the new Medicenter planned at Doctor's Park in Escanaba.

In addition, Damitz pointed out, Harnischfeger Corp. is completing work on its expanded plant and this should increase employment opportunities in the area.

The "good outlook" for the summer is entirely different from a year ago.

Last Year Poor

"Last year was a poor construction year," Damitz said. "Our total benefits paid in 1967 ran to $1,174,295. This was considerably higher than the 1966 total of $812,206."

Damitz attributed the rise in claims caused by the slow construction summer where even skilled operators of heavy equipment had trouble finding permanent employment.

He said that men worked a few days on one job, then were laid off. There was nothing of extended duration, he said.

"The men were on compensation a lot longer than they normally would be," he added.

Damitz also said that part of the increase in benefits was due to higher rates paid during the part of the year, plus the fact that more employers came under unemployment insurance provisions.

As of Feb. 15, he reported, a total of 1,253 people are registered for work in Delta and Schoolcraft counties — about 10 per cent of the labor force. This represents about 100 more than a month ago and about 100 more than a year ago at this time.

Seasonal Layoffs

"The bulk of the people drawing compensation are laid off from seasonal employment," Damitz said. "This would include construction, resort work, shipping, etc. It probably accounts for about 75 per cent of the people drawing compensation."

He added that this also has been a poor year for woods work and that the increased number drawing benefits also reflects the larger number of employers covered.

As far as training programs,

Damitz said he does expect some employment opportunities for youth under the Neighborhood Youths Corps program. Training programs for adults in radio-television, surveying and diesel mechanics are also expected to begin shortly. Details are available at the MESC office.

'Barefoot' Called Delightful Comedy

BY PEGGY BRYSON

For a thoroughly enjoyable evening we recommend to-night's final production of Neil Simon's "Barefoot in the Park," presented by the Players de Noc. Curtain time is 8 o'clock at the Area High School auditorium.

Once again, Escanaba's local drama company proved its ability. Last night's staging was near letter-perfect.

Dick Puglisi, in the lead role of Paul Bratter, carried the center stage role with assurance and on strong shoulders—his mastery of the double-take and facial expressions was warmly received by the audience of nearly 200 persons.

Coralie Puglisi, Dick's wife, in the role of Corie Bratter, (the young bride with matchmaking ideas) was particularly appealing in Act 2 when she takes one too many and decides that she should get a divorce.

Prantosh Nag was charming as a would-be suave and continental type who is suitor to Corie's mother. He helped lift into animation what might have been an otherwise slow-paced first act.

Jean Lankford in the role of the mother was delightful as the lady who is tricked into a blind date with a man who is so much her opposite.

Players in bit parts scored high: Dick Hanson as a befuddled repairman, and Julian Harrison as the deliveryman, were excellent.

"Barefoot in the Park" was indeed well done, and so hats off to Director Bill Williams and the Players!

Briefly Told

Meeting and first rehearsals for Miss Delta County candidates will be held in room 101 of Bay de Noc College at 7:30 tonight. Contracts will be handed out and candidates are to bring a small photo of themselves.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles will meet at 8:30 p.m. today at the Eagles Club.

Dr. Yntema To Speak:

Home, Family Concerns PTA

Dr. Otto Yntema, director of the Division of Field Services, Western Michigan University, will speak to the Escanaba Area PTA Council Founders Day program to be held Thursday night.

The public is invited to hear Dr. Yntema and join in the Founders Day celebration at 7:30 p.m. in the Area High School auditorium.

The program marks not only PTA Founders Day but Washington's birthday anniversary and National Brotherhood Week.

Mrs. William Savard, PTA Council president, will welcome the public; and Mrs. M. H. Garrard will direct a selected chorus of students from the Webster, Lemmer and Franklin Schools in singing the Star Spangled Banner and other numbers.

Dr. Yntema will be introduced by Luther M. Barrett, superintendent of the Escanaba Area Public Schools; and there will be musical selections by Linda Hivala, Mark Satterlin, Al Gossan, John Nyquist, Judy Ingstrom and Diana Marrier of Senior High School.

Mrs. Leo Niquette will present the PTA distinguished service awards; Louis Diedrich the school attendance awards; and Mrs. Carlton Johnson the awarding of the birthday cake. Mrs. Beverly Moraco will direct a selected chorus of students from the Pine Ridge, Ford River, Wells, Cornell, Washington, Jefferson and Soo Hill Schools.

Dr. Yntema's topic is "The Role of the PTA in the Family and Community."

"I believe the PTA has been very weak in our present day in respect to dealing with home and family problems," he told the local Council in accepting its invitation to speak. "It is certainly true that in the past the PTA had a real responsibility there and did carry it out effectively."

Service Awards

"Nevertheless, in spite of the fact that the nature of our home and family has changed considerably, there is even greater need for a better understanding of home and family living than there was 50 years ago. Then there was more stability in marriage and the home; now an affluent society has severely affected the security of home and family."

Dr. Yntema was born in Zeeland, Mich., is a graduate of Hope College at Holland; is a dedicated advocate of PTA; and served on the Kalamazoo City Council. He was the first president of the Michigan Adult Education Association.

The distinguished service awards will be presented by

Dr. Otto Yntema

Mrs. Niquette to persons who have worked for and with children on a volunteer basis. The names of the recipients are not disclosed until the awards are presented.

The Founders Day program co-chairmen are Mrs. William Savard, the PTA Council president; Mrs. Carlton Johnson, Mrs. Dan Wellman and Louis Diedrich.

Credit Union Pays 5 Per Cent, Names Officers

Committee reports were given by Roy Goldberg of the credit committee and Robert Heymen of the supervisory committee.

Elected to the board of directors was Don Koish, succeeding Ray Crandall. Korntved and John Decker were reelected to the board. Also reelected were Heymen to the supervisory committee and Bob Corrivau to the credit committee.

Pipeline Construction Bonanza Coming

Pipe Piled High In U.P. For April Welding Start

By JEAN WORTH

The Escanaba & Lake Superior Railroad will run its last special train on Wednesday from Escanaba to Sund, two miles west of Ralph, hauling steel pipe to be used in the construction of the Great Lakes Transmission Co. natural gas pipeline.

The line will run from Emerson, Manitoba to Sarnia, Ontario. It will move gas from Northwestern Canada to Eastern Canada and use about the same route as the Lakehead Pipe Line Co.'s petroleum pipeline from Western Canada to Sarnia, crossing the Upper Peninsula and the Straits of Mackinac into Lower Michigan.

The pipe line will cost $212 million and be 1,000 miles long. It will add substantial tax assessed valuation in the counties it traverses. The pipe line is 36 inches in diameter and valuation is based on cost. The Lakehead pipe line is smaller, 30 inch in diameter and it added $428,450 to the tax valuation of Delta County.

More Taxes

Lakehead's total state equalized valuation in Delta is $642,950, including the Rapid River pumping station assessed at $214,500. The Great Lakes line is expected to be assessed for more than a half million dollars and would bring in tax revenues of about $12,000 a year at that figure.

Williams Brothers Company, Engineering Division, is in charge of engineering and inspection services on the pipe line and it has a field office in Escanaba at 110 N. 13th St. with 60 persons based there.

Gary Lash is office manager and L. D. Griffin is project manager. Williams Brothers' headquarters office is at 326 National Bank of Tulsa Building.

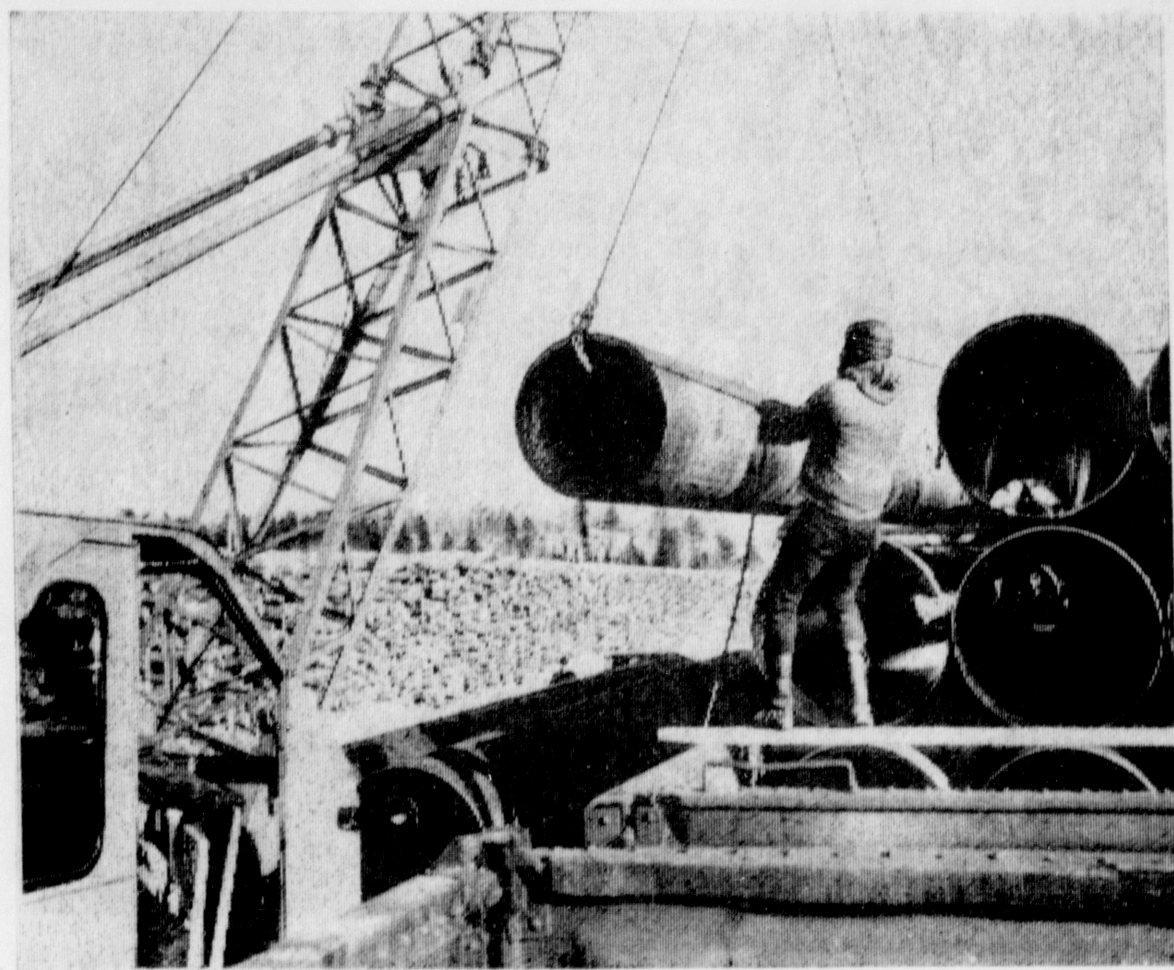

Ralph Station

The Escanaba & Lake Superior Railroad is finishing the movement of 428 carloads of steel pipe for the pipeline to the Ralph area station, where 23 miles of pipe are now stacked up in long piles. It will be moved about 15 miles in each direction by trucks to be used in the pipe line construction.

WORKMEN UNLOAD steel pipe from Canadian Pacific Railroad cars on the Escanaba & Lake Superior Railroad at Sund, (formerly Henderson) to create a stock pile for pipe line construction starting in April.

about 230 cars of pipe scheduled to be unloaded there.

E&LS Hauling

Similar numbers of cars are scheduled for unloading at Gilchrist, Gould City, Manistique and Isabella.

The E&LS will move pipe to Mashek in about half the volume of the Ralph station when it finishes at Ralph. As there is no siding at Mashek the unloading there will be from the main line.

PeBen Transport Co. of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada has the unloading contract for Williams Brothers. It has already stacked pipe at Bessemer, Marquette and other stations in the western Upper Peninsula. The pipe sections are nearly 40 feet long and 3 feet in diameter and weigh nearly 3 tons.

Longest Train

The E&LS train which moved 56 cars of pipe to Ralph last Sunday is believed by Guy W. Knutson, general manager of the line, to be the longest ever moved by the railroad. Its ore trains for the Milwaukee Road ran to 110 cars and a total overall length, without locomotive or caboose, of about 2,640 feet, while the Sunday train measured 3,080 feet.

The work of unloading goes on day and night with truck cranes removing the pipe from gondola cars bearing 11 sections each for trucking to storage piles where it is stacked by another truck crane.

To Serve U.P.

Construction work on the Great Lakes Pipe line started last year in Lower Michigan when the 157 mile segment between Clare, Mich., and Sarnia, Ontario was completed. Construction is reported underway on some of the spreads in Minnesota at present and work on the 136 mile spread to be constructed in this area of the Upper Peninsula by H. C. Price, Co., of Bartlesville, Okla., is expected to start in April. It will be completed by fall. The entire project is scheduled for completion this year.

Zoning Change, Residential Plat Before Planners

Proposals to develop a residential plat and to construct an apartment building in an area west of the Area Public High School will come to the Planning Commission for consideration at a meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the City Hall.

The five-acre parcel on 5th Ave. S. west of the High School must be rezoned from Residential A to Residential C to permit multiple dwelling use of an apartment building. An informal hearing on the proposed zoning change will be held at the Commission meeting.

A preliminary plat for an area of about 20 acres in Parkway Estates will receive consideration and a recommendation at the request of the City Council. The application for approval of the plat comes from Real Estates Investors.

The Commission will also review a request from Phil & Lee's to purchase city-owned land on the northwest side of the city to be used for a mobile homes site.

Discussion of the adoption of a city comprehensive plan; and review of proposed revisions in the zoning ordinance for changing uses in industrial zones are also on the Commission agenda.

Rocky's Image

Persons favoring Gov. Nelson Rockefeller for the Republican nomination for President are going to write in his name in the New Hampshire presidential primary on March 12.

Rocky has said many times that he's backing Michigan Gov. George Romney for the GOP nomination, but the Rockefeller tide runs stronger as political dopesters say that it looks like a Nixon challenge and a Johnson election.

If Rockefeller wants the nomination, and it must be suspected that he does, he has done all the right things to get it up to now. An early announcement of his candidacy would probably have coagulated the opposition to him — those who don't like his second marriage, the far right Republicans, the Goldwaterites and others. His backing of Romney has helped his own cause.

Recently he has come under fire in a devil-if-you-do, and devil-if-you-don't confrontation with the New York City garbage crisis. He solved that crisis when Mayor John Lindsay couldn't do it without abandoning his bargaining position, but he did it in a way that must cause uneasiness about its implications.

The implications are deeper than the possible candidacy of Nelson Rockefeller for the Presidency: they strike at the roots of government. It has been said that New York City has become ungovernable and we are inclined to believe it. The garbage strike is another evidence of the deep trouble in which our greatest city is wallowing.

Mayor Lindsay tries to project an image of "Fun City" for New York because it needs visitor income so desperately to try to pay its huge bills, but people were calling it "Funk City" when its streets were piled high with uncollected garbage. Trash fires were burning everywhere, rats infested the garbage and health authorities warned of the danger of typhoid and other filth-spread diseases.

Lindsay had made what he thought was a reasonable settlement with President John DeLury of the Teamster-affiliated Uniformed Sanitationmen's Association for annual pay boosts for the garbage men of $350, plus larger fringes. Sanitation workers now earn about $8,000 a year after three years. The union membership rejected these terms, demanding $600 and the strike was on.

Lindsay asked other city workers to collect the garbage, but that was immediately rejected. He asked Governor Rockefeller to turn out the National Guard to do the work. Rockefeller refused. The New York dailies whopped him for it, and echoed Lindsay's charge of "blackmail," but Rockefeller had some considerations:

1. He obviously didn't want to tarnish his image with labor with the Presidency a possibility.
2. He had the support of the garbage men's union in running for governor.
3. He's not extra chummy with Lindsay.
4. The persons whom support for Lindsay would impress most (the Republican conservatives) aren't for him.
5. Use of the Guard would cost more than a settlement.
6. He feared a general strike if he tried strikebreaking.

So Rockefeller took over control of the situation from Lindsay. He appointed his own mediation board and it recommended a $425 a year increase instead of $350, which the garbage men immediately accepted. Lindsay still protested and Rockefeller said that the state would take over the garbage collection and bill the city for it.

Here, as in so many strike settlements in recent years, the issue was not resolved. The union won. It leapfrogged New York City Hall to the statehouse at Albany and got its way. New York usually has some sort of major strike going and its taxes are terrific. Its harrassed people have now had another notice — if one were needed — that it pays to strike.

The process, of course, is very dangerous. Government authority is being destroyed and inflation is getting a big boost. New York employers will now probably have requests for pay raises because their workers have to pay higher taxes for garbage collection. Rockefeller pointed out that his settlement was only $25 a man more than the city had been willing to pay, but even camels know that eventually just one more straw will break your back.

MILLAGE
I, too, commend the School Board for giving of their time and efforts to our area with no pay. However, I do not commend them for spending money before they receive it.

Experts say the lawlessness all over America can be attributed largely to lack of discipline in the individual homes and I believe the same applies to this situation. A few years ago, when I was handling the budget in our family, we were on the verge of bankruptcy because I felt I could have anything I wanted and so could my family. Just go out and charge it.

And then came the rude awakening. I had more bills than money. I wanted everything everyone else had, but had to face the realization I couldn't afford it.

My husband took over the problem and in a few years had us on a solid foundation, but we did without all of the things I thought we had to have.

I believe it applies in this situation. We want our children to have the best possible education, but we can't afford it. We must live within our budget. If extra money is available, then we can have some of the extras. Budgeting begins in the home and should be practiced in every phase of government, local, state and federal.

Election Saves GOP Majority

HUDSONVILLE (AP) — The Republicans maintained their state Senate majority Monday with the victory of Gary Byker, 47, of Hudsonville, in the race for the 23rd District post.

Byker trounced Chester J. Harmsen, 52, a Democrat from Holland. The unofficial tabulation of the vote was 15,583-6,579.

A Harmsen victory would have decimated the Senate distribution at 19 Republicans and 19 Democrats.

Byker's triumph gave the GOP the 20-18 margin it had when Sen. Harold J. Volkman, R-Holland, died last year.

"One of my major concerns in the campaign was keeping the Republican majority. I had a tremendous responsibility to the party," Byker said after his victory.

He said he believes the Republicans are "more fiscally responsible" than the Democrats.

'Generation Gap' Is Real To Youth

By MARY KNOLL
This is the second in a series of four articles specially written for the Daily Press by Mary Knoll, a senior at Escanaba Area High School.

The "generation gap" between teen-agers and adults, frequently publicized and criticized, is nothing new. It has always existed; it is just now being re-explored. With all the controversy of the "rebellious teen-agers" and the "new generation", parents and adults are turning to teen-agers for answers and explanations and are finding these gaps in place of understanding and compatibility.

Teens claim the "gap" is caused mainly by the fact that each age group lives in a different world as far as interests, occupations, pastime, and in general, outlooks on life, go.

The fact remains, teen-agers ARE a new generation and they live in a different era than that their parents live in now and that they lived in as teen-agers. And, the new generation must live in its own time, in its own way.

Happier World
The old cliches, which seem so much a part of an adult's vocabulary when referring to today's adolescents — "When I was young" . . . "We never did things like this" . . . "We would have been shocked, embarrassed" . . . symbolize the difference in the times. Things are different. In fact, this is so evident, need it be said?

Teens agree their lives are, and should be, different from those their parents lived as teen-agers. They should not be hampered and pressured by another generation's version of life as a teen-ager.

As one senior girl stated, "I think our parents may be partially blinded by the harshness of their lives — World War II, economic recessions, war-time shortages, etc. — to realize that there is an abundance of happiness in the world."

"My parents are trying to compensate with my life to make up for the things they didn't have or have a chance to do when they were growing up so that I'll be, supposedly, a better person. They realize that life can be good and have meaning and they're just trying to help me find it and put it to good use."

Adult Interest
While these two statements may seem to strike on different sides of the controversial spectrum, they show one common idea: Parents are interested in the teen-age generation. They regard teens with skepticism, look at them with bewilderment and disbelief, treat them as if they were sub-human creatures, but, whether or not they or the teens will admit it, the interest is there.

How a teenager regards the adult generation is a peculiar thing. The students of Escanaba Area High School have mixed feelings on the subject of the parent. Slightly over half of the cross-section questioned felt that their parents were old-fashioned in some of their ideals and moral standards, and the rest claimed that their parents were as up-to-date and fashionable as a teen-ager could expect, considering the differences in life age, etc.

Looking At Parents
Both groups had statements to support their feelings.

One student claimed that her parents "stuck their heads in the sand and let the world go by," meaning that they didn't keep up with the latest developments on the "teen scene."

Another said, "They are shocked by our moral codes, with our freedom in discussions of sex, love, etc. It seems that their ideas are patterned after the way things were when they were youngsters. The world has changed vastly in that short time, and they should be able to adjust their thinking."

"My parents aren't old-fashioned, at least not in the suggested meaning of the word. I mean, if they think I should not do a certain thing, or if they think something could be bad for me, they know when to clamp down, but that's the difference between being strict and old-fashioned," said one junior girl.

More Respect
When asked if they would treat their teen-age children as they are treated by their parents, the majority replied with an emphatic "no."

"To say how you would act, and to act as you say, are two completely different things," one senior boy said. "But I'd say that I'd try to give a teen-ager more understanding, more respect, and in general, recognize him as a person."

One girl stated, "Before I can really say how I'd treat them, I'd have to evaluate their intelligence, maturity, and behavior in general and base my decision on those qualities."

Teens agree that the flood of literature and articles concerning the "new generation" is not effective in educating parents on the nature of the average teen-ager and his relationship with the adult world. The stories and articles, more often than not, are too superficial to come up with any workable solutions and answers; the authors rarely reach into the mind, soul and heart of a teen to show that he (the teen) is also a human being, and therefore fails to portray him as such. The articles are often one-sided, covering up the good and emphasizing the bad.

The Individual
Many teens said that they do not feel respect for their parents.

"I don't really feel respect for my parents, because I don't think they're as fair as they should be in certain cases," was a frequent comment. "They treat teens more as a group than as individuals."

"My parents try to act cool, or rather, their version of it," stated a junior girl. "They think that if they can convince teens that they are cool, then the relationship between the two will be buddy-buddy, real chummy, and all. Who wants that kind of relationship with parents?"

Today's youth places an extreme emphasis on the ideas of individualism, self-determination, and self-realization. They question the fundamental cornerstones of conventional society. And to them, the adult generation symbolizes the very things they wish to get away from.

Ann Landers

Hair Dye For Child Has Ann's No Vote

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I live near an elementary school. We have always taken pride in our lawn and garden. The grass is like a velvet carpet and the flowers are so beautiful people come from other parts of the city just to look.

We are not mean people, Ann, and we do love children, but it is maddening the way some of the elementary school youngsters run across our lawn and trample on the flowers.

Last week I telephoned the school and asked to speak to the principal. I was told on two occasions that the principal was out of the office but would return my call. The call was not returned.

On the third try I heard the principal's secretary say, "This nut has called twice before and I managed to get rid of her but you'd better take the call this time because she's the type who won't give up."

When the principal got on the phone he was very courteous and promised to speak to the students about trespassing on our property.

My question is this: Why is a person who calls to ask for the school's cooperation considered a "nut?" Was I crazy to make this request? Thank you for your answer. — FT. WORTH

Dear Ft. Worth: A person who telephones to complain about anything is immediately on the spot because most folks don't like criticism. For this reason, the complainant fares better if he doesn't come on too strong with his complaint, particularly to an intermediary.

The secretary was not only rude but unbelievably stupid. I wouldn't want that knucklehead in my office!

Dear Ann Landers: A relative of mine is doing something which I feel goes beyond "foolish." It is, in my judgment, harmful to her child. This is the story:

Melanie is a middle-aged divorcee who has a sweet little daughter. Melanie's natural hair color is dark brown but apparently she didn't think it was flashy enough to get a fourth husband, so last year she dyed her hair platinum blonde. In order to make herself appear more authentic she dyed her young daughter's hair the same color. By the way, Melanie does the dye jobs herself and they look it.

The little girl is now five years of age and her hair is getting very thin on top. I'm occupational hasheard.

afraid the child will be bald by the time she is eight if her mother doesn't stop this nonsense.

Melanie is my niece. What can I do? — COMMITTEE OF ONE TO SAVE A CHILD

Dear Committee: It is best that this subject be broached by someone of authority, outside the family. Ask the child's teacher to talk to the mother. There's a good chance that the teacher has also noticed the little girl's hair is falling out. A mother who would exploit her child in such a way is utterly brainless.

Confidential to So In Love: You call it love if you want to, but I have another name for it. Wake up and smell the coffee. He hangs around because the price is right and he has nothing to lose, Dummy.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

State Woman Cong Prisoner

CLIO (AP) — A Michigan woman, who had been teaching high school in the war-ravaged South Vietnamese city of Hue, is a prisoner of the Viet Cong, her parents said Monday.

"I just learned 15 minutes ago that my daughter had been captured," Mrs. Paul G. Johnson of Clio told newsmen.

Mrs. Johnson said she and her husband received a telegram from the U.S. State Department informing them that their daughter, Sandra R. Johnson, 24, was a prisoner.

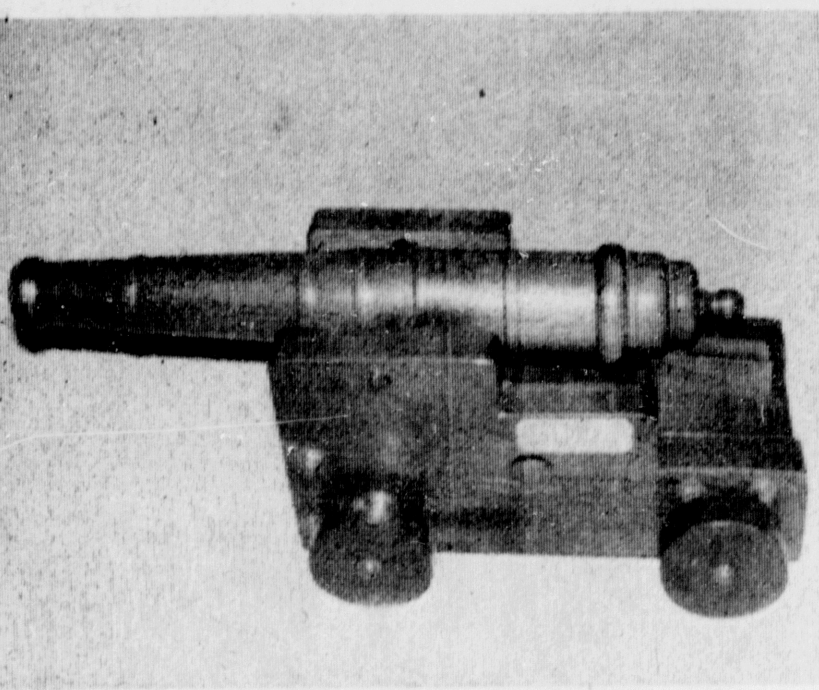

Miss Johnson, a graduate of the University of Michigan and Harvard University, had been listed earlier in the day as one of three International Voluntary Services (IVS) workers missing in Vietnam since the Jan. 31 Communist offensive.

Mrs. Johnson said the telegram indicated her daughter was captured in Hue Feb. 9. The telegram contained no details about the capture, she said.

Miss Johnson taught English at a private girl's high school in Hue and also at the University of Hue.

SHIPWRECK CANNON IS one of the products of the Charlevoix, Mich., firm headed by William Garten. The cannon is made of wood salvaged from ships that sank on the Lakes many years ago, and is a decorative item for any home. Garten in a skin diving suit is pictured with his son, Greg, on an exploring visit to North Fox Island.

Old Shipwrecks Salvaged To Become New Furniture

By CLINT DUNATHAN

Skin diver William Garten of Charlevoix has gone down to the bottom of Lake Michigan and has come up with something old — pieces of wreckage from schooners — which his firm makes into decorative and useful new furniture.

The Great Lakes Shipwreck Co., with Bill Garten as its president, combines elements that appeal to men with a feeling for adventure and desire to turn their exploits into cash.

Garten came to the attention of persons interested in Great Lakes lore when he applied to the U.S. Army Engineers for approval to salvage a broken up old schooner off Fox Island, which is located at the north end of Lake Michigan about 30 miles southeast of Manistique.

Extend To Delta?

"We want to salvage the pieces of that wreck for materials from which our company (which was formed last year) hand crafts furniture and other items from the wood," said Garten.

"The wood — white oak — has taken on color from nut brown to ebony, the result of years of aging and the minerals in the water," he explained.

Garten says that he knows there "are quite a number of wrecks" in the waters of Delta County (which includes Poverty, Summer, and St. Martins Island), and he is interested in finding them.

"Eut as to our plans of extending our explorations to Delta County waters, I would say it depends at this time on the restrictions, if any, that may be imposed on us by the state," he said.

Great Lakes Shipwreck Co. has in its official roster four other men besides Garten — Don Seelye, Charles Scherping, Duane Jorgenson and Darwin Smith. They are all divers and they all live in Charlevoix.

Carry Brass Plate

Garten said he and his partners believe the old schooner off North Fox Island is the David Wagstaff, which foundered in heavy weather on Nov. 25, 1890.

"However, we are still doing research to make certain that we have the correct name of the ship, as we put a brass plate on all of our handcrafted furniture, giving the name of the vessel and when she went down."

The manufacture of prime pieces of shipwreck furniture involves much work, beginning with the salvage of the materials. Finding the wreck isn't always easy and sometimes the skin divers take to the air to better spot submerged hulks.

"The actual salvage of the vessel's timbers is a long, hard task," said Garten. "Generally the larger pieces are floated with pontoons or large air bags and then towed to port with our 40-foot tugboat. Our boat is equipped with diving gear, including sonar, generators, compressors, radio telephone, plus a two-ton wrench and other little goodies."

Historic Wrecks

After salvage, the pieces must be dried, generally for a year or more, to avoid checking, cracking and warping of the wood, Garten said. Then the wood is rough cut, cleaned, and then finished into shipwreck furniture. They also sell the wood to other furniture makers.

The destruction of old shipwrecks that are in one piece is not condoned by Garten and his men.

"The members of the first U.S.A. Branch of the British Sub-Aqua Club of Mackinaw City has been working on creating a Mackinaw Marine Museum project, and they have been plagued by divers pilfering wrecks that lay deep and were previously undisturbed. These are historic wrecks and should be preserved."

But wrecks on shores and in shallows, which are broken up and being covered over by action of the waves, should be allowed to be recovered, Garten believes. The old wreck at North Fox Island has been stripped for salvage many years ago. "But if artifacts are found under the wreck that someone missed, they will be donated by us to a Historical Society or museum," Garten said.

"It is also our interest to raise a historic wreck, one that is in good condition, to be made into a marine museum at some future time when we have more equipment to work with."

Deferment Is Up To Local Board

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's state Selective Service director says local boards still will be able to grant deferments from the draft on the basis of what they consider essential occupations.

Col. Arthur Holmes said the local boards still will have this power despite a decision by the National Security Council suspending indefinitely its list of critical occupations and essential activities.

"Local boards still will have the final say," Holmes declared. "It is up to the boards to decide themselves what kind of deferments will be given."

Meanwhile, Senate majority leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, and minority leader Raymond Dzendzel, D-Detroit, introduced a resolution in the Senate Monday night calling on Congress to take immediate action to defer all law enforcement personnel from the draft.

The compelling factor, the resolution said, is the "prime need for instant availability of trained forces for civil law and order."

Holmes said he had received a number of calls from local boards asking for a directive. He said he did not have one firm up yet but planned to send out information to the local boards "within two or three days."

"I was asked, for instance, if this meant an engineer could no longer be deferred," Holmes said. "I told them it was up to the local board if they feel a deferment is essential to the community interest."

"I would fight for the right, for instance," Holmes said, "to defer policemen. I don't think this means the local boards are going to jump in and reclassify everybody. They know who is essential and who is not."

Deferments for graduate students were suspended except for those in medical, dental and allied medical fields. The deferments would continue for graduate students who entered their second or subsequent year of graduate study in the fall of 1967.

Deferments would not be allowed for students graduating

Bays Resources Group Organized

Delta Council To Expand Coho Boom

When the first coho salmon jacks (prematurely migrating males) run into Little Bay de Noc next fall there will be a prize system to reward the fishermen who take the first ones.

There'll also be a continuing program to reward fishermen in the Bay de Noc, not only for the cohos, but also for the bass and northern pike they take, and — hopefully — for the chinook salmon which will be planted after the cohos get a start.

First meeting of a prize sponsoring new group which named itself the Bays de Noc Resources Council was held last night at Jack's Restaurant, Rapid River, and heard Clifford Long, Gladstone, district fish biologist for the Michigan Conservation Department, say that the Bays de Noc area should not look upon the coming of the cohos as a ready-made recreation business, but as a base upon which such a business could be built.

Let us not, Long suggested, make the mistake of the 1940's when the walleye population eruption provided sensationally good fishing and a sports fishing boom, which collapsed when the fish population nosedived.

The group of about 25 interested persons heard Long and Lawrence E. Haack, recreation officer of the Hiawatha National Forest, present the opportunities for development of recreational business in Delta County. Joseph L. Heirman, Delta County director of extension services for Michigan State University, presided and he, Haack, and Long were made ex-officio members of the Resources Council to bring it into close liaison with the Forest Service, Conservation Department and MSU.

Miles O' Fish

Clifford Long said 100,000 coho salmon averaging 5 to 6 inches in length will be planted in a stream running into Little Bay de Noc next spring.

"If we recover 20 per cent of them when they're 24 inches in length — and that's under average because they will run 28 to 29 inches — it would mean 7.5 miles of cohos stretched end to end," Long proposes that at intervals in the miles of fish to be caught the fishermen be given honors and prizes to point the productive capacity of the fishery and induce other persons to come to the Bays de Noc for fishing and other recreation.

Long said that the Conservation Department would introduce coho salmon in the waters of a tributary of Little Bay de Noc (the Whitefish River is favored as the planting ground, but no definite decision has been made yet on a stream) this spring. The Conservation Department hopes to make early plantings of cohos in Big Bay de Noc, too, and planting of chinook salmon in the bays.

"The benefits of these plantings to this district depend on what people here do," said Long. "If there is no action there will not be much immediate nor long range benefits. The news that we have solved the tourist problem and that cohos are now assured for Car Damages Store Window On Delta Ave.

A car accidentally left in gear with the motor running jumped the curbing on Delta Ave. Monday afternoon, knocking down a parking meter and damaging the front of Ivory Drug, 912 Delta Ave.

City police reported that Lorraine Pada, 602 Superior Ave., was driving a car owned by Andrew Norman, 614 Superior Ave.

When she left the car, the vehicle moved forward over the curb and went through the west window of the store. There was only slight damage to the car, officers said.

Talks To Probe Highway Plans

City Manager H. J. Henrikson and four members of the City Commission will leave Wednesday for Lansing to meet with legislators and the Michigan Highway Commission.

Henrikson said the purpose of the meeting with the Highway commission is to discuss the proposed four-lane highway project from Gladstone and Rapid River and to seek answers to several questions Gladstone has regarding the project.

"We hope we can reach a better understanding with the highway commission," he said.

The Gladstone Commission has never given approval to Highway Commission plans for the four-lane highway at the north approach to Gladstone.

Henrikson said the Gladstone delegation will meet with the Highway Commission Friday, after dining with State Sen. Thomas Schweigert (R-Petoskey) Wednesday night and meeting with Rep. Charles Varnum (R-Manistiquie) Thursday.

Members of the Commission scheduled to make the trip are Arne Anderson, Raymond Norton, Delbert Nelson and Frank Stupak.

Grand Rapids Has First Negro On City Commission

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Electors in Grand Rapids Monday picked the first Negro commissioner in recent history and defeated the city's comptroller of eight years.

Rev. Lyman S. Parks, pastor of the First Community AME Church, defeated Herbert Soodma for 3rd Ward commissioner, 5,976 to 4,942. Soodma had resigned as 3rd Ward supervisor to run for the commission post.

The Rev. Mr. Parks is a graduate of Wilberforce University and Payne Theological Seminary, both at Wilberforce, Ohio, and is a member of a committee studying city governmental reorganization in Grand Rapids.

Tet Attack Hurts Westy's Reputation

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The flabbergasting savagery of the enemy's lunar new year offensive in Vietnam has resulted in predictable activity here at home — officials and private citizens alike are busily looking for someone to blame.

Familiar old dogs are, of course, being kicked anew. But this time public anger goes further than the White House. This time it reaches the battlefield itself, where the wrath seems mercilessly concentrated on one man.

"Westmoreland!" barks a Manhattan store clerk.

"He's awful."

"Any Pfc. could do better."

"Get that guy out of there."

The conclusion is, "before it's too late."

Indeed, William Childs Westmoreland, soon 54, commander of over 500,000 U.S. ground forces in the war zone, is subject to increasing criticism these days. Fairly or not, many people believe his four stars have tarnished considerably.

It is an ironic reversal for the man. Until now, he was popularly held so high above any Viet controversy that soldiers had nicknamed him "Mr. Clean."

But popular temper has a short memory and even shorter fuse. Nobody faulted Westmoreland for the war mess during normal times. Lately, however, times have been anything but normal and thus the current call for his scalp.

Actually, the "call" has been confined to whispers and rumors. Few high-ranking statesmen or office holders have openly opposed his continuing in his post. Yet hard feeling is known to exist, even among the general's Army peers.

The military's concern what there is of it, is understandable. Old soldiers hold that "a commander is responsible for all that his men do and all that they fail to do." And since Westmoreland's men failed to instantly stop the stupefying Tet attack, he in turn must be held responsible.

In all honesty, this point is wide open to argument. Westmoreland backers are quick to point out that American troops fought a remarkably successful defense. That the reason for enemy advances was that they wisely avoided U.S. strongholds and zeroed in on Vietnamese-held positions.

In Saigon, for example, defense was largely handled by the South Viets. For political reasons, the nationals wanted to save their own capital and, therefore, U.S. troops confined ed their activities to mostly support and fringe fire.

Still, Westmoreland rates a black eye, according to some. Critics claim he incorrectly estimated enemy ambition and the alternatives of enemy strategy. They say he was so wrapped up in the belief of a conventional push in a single area (Khe Sanh) that he was not prepared for the shotgun assault that came.

This latter condemnation is the one most frequently leveled at Gen. Westmoreland. From the beginning, his detractors have said he doesn't understand guerrilla combat, that he has little concept of unconventional war.

They press that, until Vietnam, all of the general's military training and combat participation was of the traditional, stand-up-and-fight variety.

"If this was World War II," says one observer, "Westy would make a fine commander. If this was World War II, he'd be the man there first with the most and the people back home would be building statues in his honor."

But this isn't World War II, and there are no statues — only more and more gripes.

A sampling of other complaints:

- A nonsmoking, nondrinking, one-time Boy Scout, Westmoreland is sometimes pictured as too "lily white" to be effective in a gutty, sneaky, bastard war. The view is that "it'll take a son of a bitch to win this thing."

- Well-liked and unabrasive with a string of Vietnamese governments and U.S. ambassadors, the general, his critics nonetheless feel, is politically shallow. One Viet rap: "He hasn't even learned our language."

- His emphatic insistence that the South Vietnamese have "a fine fighting force" casts doubt on his credibility.

His own command contradicts the opinion. Most U.S. field soldiers deplore Vietnamese military effectiveness.

- Even his friends (and he has endless herds of devoted admirers) admit Westmoreland must be weary and in need of rest. In January he marked his fourth year in the war, a bone-breaking tenure under such supreme stress.

The list goes on.

But with the exception of the last point, most Westmoreland criticism is highly debatable. To a meaningful degree, much of it is simply insignificant.

In final analysis, the current grumbling over the general is perhaps not so much based on fact as it is on fate. Saddened and stunned, Americans may be merely frustrated to the point where they will slap just to slap.

It is probably true that no other general could have prevented the Tet offensive, that no other general could handle the war better, that no other general could bring America closer to military victory than William Westmoreland.

Yet critics feel even these truths are now irrelevant.

They contend the only relevant truth is that we will never know what another general can do over there, unless another general is permitted to try.

Marine Pvt. Delore M. King, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Delore M. King Sr., 940 Stephenson Ave., Escanaba, graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot San Diego. He will now undergo from two to four weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

Marine Pvt. Bruce K. Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Craig, 1410 S. 13th St., Escanaba, completed two weeks of training under simulated combat conditions in the fundamentals of day and night patrolling, employment of infantry weapons, survival methods and assault tactics at Camp Pendleton Calif. This individual combat training is given every Marine after his graduation from recruit training. From this course, he is scheduled to go on to more advanced training before being assigned to his permanent unit.

There are now 40,000 motels operating in the United States, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

THE PRESIDENT and his general. President Johnson has relied heavily on Westmoreland's evaluation of the situation in Vietnam, and frequent appearances in Washington for consultation, to bolster administration policy before Congress and the public. The question now is how much longer the close relationship is likely to continue.

Michigan Takes Lead In Regional Waste Treating

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan is in the fore of a new government approach to handling the age-old problem of disposing of human and industrial wastes.

Instead of each town and city handling its own sewage problems, emphasis is changing toward vast centralized systems that would handle the wastes of scores of communities.

The target in initial steps toward regional waste treatment is Detroit and southeastern Michigan.

Officials of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration office in Grosse Ile near Detroit are recommending, as the result of an intensive study, that the U.S. government put much of its money into centralized systems.

This is a sharp change from the practice of governments granting individual sums to hundreds of communities.

Detroit Serves 54 Units

"We don't say the only money you can get is for a regional system," said Laurence B. O'Leary, director of the Detroit district of the Pollution Control Administration.

"However, if there is a regional system set up, we wouldn't be very likely to give out funds for an individual community that wouldn't cooperate with the regional system."

Detroit, currently serving 54 communities with a primary sewage treatment plant, is preparing to construct a $72 million secondary treatment plant in 1970.

The plant is designed to serve a large region outside the city limits.

O'Leary said officials of many smaller communities have objected to the regional waste treatment concept, "particularly if they have a large amount of money invested locally."

Municipalities in the state are spending $19.12 million in the 1967-68 fiscal year for sewage treatment facilities, the Michigan Water Resources Commission said.

Plan For Future

The recommendations in the study from O'Leary's office have yet to be acted upon by officials in the U.S. Department of the Interior. But O'Leary said his report is a "plan for the future" in which he expects most of the recommendations to be adopted.

He says advantages of a regional system include employment of expert staffs to maintain top efficiency, larger and more modern facilities and emptying of the treated sewage into larger bodies of water.

In areas near many small communities, "the rivers are very small and their capacity for waste assimilation is limited," he said.

He also said smaller communities often can't afford staffs of experts to run their treatment facilities.

1,000 Volunteer In Chicago Posse

CHICAGO (AP) — Jesse James' career as an outlaw would have been short-lived if the settlers of the Old West responded to posse calls as Chicago residents have.

Sheriff Joseph Woods of Cook County received more than a thousand applications and an equal number of telephone inquiries within a few days after his Feb. 12 call for a 1,000-man riot control unit to be used in case of civil disorders this summer.

As in the Old West, posse members will supply their own handguns and will draw no pay.

The first batch of volunteers included the president of an airplane company, two attorneys, a hospital therapist, a security guard, a utility company executive, a dining car porter, a systems analyst and an official of Pinkerton's, Inc., the private detective agency.

One man wrote, "I am 54 years of age. I know when the chips are down and America has to be defended, by God, I am ready."

The dining car porter said, "I am a Negro American. I don't think riots will help in any way. The only way is law and order."

The sheriff wants his unit to be biracial—500 Negro and 500 white volunteers. The first week's figures indicated white volunteers outnumbered Negro volunteers 4-to-1.

Earl Latham, a Negro security guard, said, "the squad is a good idea if members keep their temper and cool."

Applications from persons under 21, persons with police records or physical disabilities, or without jobs are automatically rejected.

Three hundred persons tentatively accepted last week will meet with Woods tonight.

"The volunteers will be carefully screened," Woods said. "Not one man will become a deputy until he has passed all the tests and gone through a riot training program of 40 to 60 hours."

Medical School Getting Library

The growth of Wayne State University's School of Medicine was advanced Feb. 16, when a grant of $1,432,246 for construction of the University's Shiffman Medical Library was announced by the Department of Health, Education & Welfare.

Cost of the library building, expected to be $2,000,000 is financed by the HEW grant, a $500,000 gift from Abraham Shiffman through the Shiffman Foundation, and money from $200,000 already raised by WSU medical alumni. The remainder of the medical alumni gift will be used to cover cost of furnishings, equipment and books.

Construction of the building is expected to begin this year at Brush and Canfield on land purchased from the City of Detroit for $60,362.

Collects $10,000 For Use Of Land

LANSING (AP) — An Alpena County farmer will collect more than four times the value of his farm because the State Highway Department temporarily occupied half of his 23-acre plot, the Michigan Supreme Court ruled Monday.

In 1963 the highway department took by condemnation 12 1/2 acres of Arthur Hahn's farm and was allowed to occupy the farm with machinery and equipment and to remove rock, sand, gravel and earth for highway construction purposes.

The land later was returned. A report by the highway department was upheld by Alpena County Circuit Judge Philip Glennie giving Hahn more than $10,000 for use of his land.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas Brennan said today that the Hahn farm "is worth less than $2,300 and he still gets to keep the farm, although admittedly it is not of much value anymore."

Mrs. Peter Laaninen

Jean L. Ringstrom Peter Laaninen Wed

The symbol of the Christogram, representing marriage in Christ, was the theme for the wedding Saturday, Feb. 3 in Bay City of Jean Louise Ringstrom and the Rev. Peter Laaninen of Rock. The symbol was used on the formal invitations, wedding bulletin covers, napkins and silver wedding cake stand.

The Rev. Martin Ringstrom, pastor of the Messiah Lutheran Church, and father of the bride, performed the candle-light ceremony assisted by the Rev. Douglas Niemi, associate pastor. The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Martin Ringstrom and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Laaninen of Republic, are the parents of the bridegroom.

Robber acolytes lighting the candles were Stephen Ringstrom, brother of the bride and Thomas Peterson. Preceding the ceremony, organist, Fred Lake, played a 30 minute concert of selections by Bach and Handel, chosen by the bride. Soloist for the service was Mrs. David Castrodale.

Aqua Velveteen

Attired in aqua velveteen sheath dresses complimented by matching velveteen Dior headpieces with aqua tulle veiling, long white gloves and silver cross pendants were Linda Ringstrom, Ann Arbor, maid of honor and Kristin Ringstrom and Barbara Pratt of Bay City, bridesmaids. They carried bouquets of white roses and pompons.

Bestman for his brother was Karl Laaninen of Chehalis, Wash. and groomsmen were Wilbert Laaninen Jr. of Marquette and the Rev. George Kaiser of Cedarville.

The bride approached the altar attired in an A-line sheath gown of bridal satin styled with a double satin train, short sleeves and scalloped lace bodice accented with pearl buttons in the back.

Mothers' Attire

Her veil of imported silk illusion extended to the hem of the dress from a cluster of satin roses in her hair. She carried a white Bible covered with satin and lace and topped with a white orchid and lily of the valley.

The mother of the bride wore a light blue two piece dress with matching accessories and Mrs. Laaninen chose a light green dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of cymbidium orchids and rosebuds.

Chaplain and Mrs. P. G. Wahlstrom hosted the reception which was held following the ceremony in the church fellowship hall.

For going away, the bride wore a aqua velveteen dress with brown velveteen trim. Following a wedding trip to Detroit the newlyweds are now at home in Rock where Pastor Laaninen serves a Lutheran Church in America congregation. He also serves a LCA parish in Perkins. The bride is the former director of parish activities at Bethany Lutheran Church, Escanaba.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

New mothers on a limited budget who need wash cloths for baby—cut one of your husband's old polo shirts into squares as large as desired. Then put a roll hem or a zig-zag stitch around the edges so they will hold their shape.

These are not only soft for a baby's tender skin, but are easier to handle than a terry wash cloth.

You can also use the entire front or back section of these shirts for little towels. They are an ideal size for small babies and later they are just right for use after shampooing those little heads.

Boys Still Prefer Long Hair On Girls

NEW YORK (AP) — "Boys—helps get looks and dates—tend to like long hair on girls," Sheryl Karp started out. "It's more feminine." Then she said it: "Sexier."

The 20-year-old coed—who keeps her own lustrous red hair a few inches below her shoulders—apparently speaks for a majority at Hunter College. The upper East Side school is a veritable stable of long silky manes—in blonde, brunette, brownette and every other imaginable hue.

"A lot of girls have short hair," said Sheryl's girl friend, Linda Langsam, 20, talking above the hubbub of Hunter's sprawling basement cafeteria. "But they can wear 'falls.'" (That's an artificial mane and they sell for $45 to $125 or so.)

Wear Falls

Sheryl and Linda nabbed Bonnie Karrin as she walked by. Bonnie owns a falls to go with her light auburn hair, which she wears shorter than most boys' hair. "I like it short because it's so easy just to get up in the morning and go," Bonnie said.

She alternates coming to school in short hair and coming in her falls, she said. Some people say hello to her and then blurt: "Hey, your hair grew!"

These college girls, like many other jeune filles from Seattle to Miami, have found that long hair—whether real or "put on,"

Gets Dates

Another nurse-to-be, Pat Falco, 20, said she was under "strict orders" to keep her sandy hair lengthy "until he returns." He is in the Air Force at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base in Missouri.

Upstairs in the offices of the Hunter student newspaper, The Envoy, a pert brunette staffer named Gerry Malerba commented: "Just about every guy I've met says, 'Keep your hair long,' and they even notice how much it's growing and everything."

"It's too much of a hassle to cut it," commented Kathy Smith, 20, the Envoy's editor in chief. "And I like the way it looks around my face. Also, my mother hates it long."

Rebellion

Gerry chimed in that that was another of her reasons for letting the strands grow and flow. "It's a big rebellion thing," she said.

The firsthand word from male staffers standing around did not jibe with the favorable male consensus Gerry claimed. A quick survey tallied one for long hair, one for short, one undecided and one dodging the question.

"I don't know; I really don't know," was the comment from news editor Fred Holman, 19.

"I like girls to wear their hair the way they like to wear it," put in Kenny Kerner, who comes on as the staff hippie. His

FIVE YEAR OLD Mark Gilger poses with a pan of milk and his wounded cat wearing splints on both front legs in his Shomokin, Pa. home. The cat was found shot near the Gilger home by an unknown gunman. The bullet entered one leg, passing through its chest cavity, lodging in the other leg. A vet removed the slug and the cat will recover. (AP Wire-photo)

Pastry For Washington's Birthday

Put a bright red cherry on top of these little blue pastries and you have the perfect treat for George Washington's birthday. They are easy to make and even easier to eat.

Blueberry-Cream Cheese Pastries

1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup (1/2 pt.) sour cream
3 eggs, well beaten
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1 pound (two 8-oz. pkgs.) soft cream cheese
1 can (1 lb. 6 oz.) blueberry pie filling

Cut butter into flour until particles are very fine. Add 3 tablespoons of sour cream and stir until dough cleans the bowl. Knead on a lightly floured board. Divide dough into 12 pieces. Press dough with floured fingers into the bottom and sides of twelve 3-inch tart or large muffin pans. Beat remaining sour cream with eggs, sugar, butter, vanilla and almond extracts and cream cheese until smooth. Fill tarts to within 1/2-inch of pastry tops. (Since tart pans vary in size a great deal, some of the cheese mixture may be left over. If so, it can be baked in custard cups as a pudding and topped with blueberries.) Bake in a pre-heated moderate oven (375 degrees) for 20 minutes or until pale brown. Cool in pans. Unmold and spoon blueberry pie filling over top of each tart. Garnish with sweetened whipped cream. Makes twelve 3-inch tarts.

FABRIC FOR TODDLERS

Velveteen is the most popular fabric this season for toddlers' dress-up occasions and party treats are no hazard to this regal-looking but sturdily washable pile fabric. It is best to wash pint-sized velveteens by hand, to keep deep colors separate from other clothes to avoid transferring excess color. Use warm soap or detergent suds and rinses, then allow the garment to drip dry without wringing. For touch-ups, use a steam iron or dry iron over a damp press cloth, holding it just above but never touching the fabric.

Blueberries, cream cheese pastries.

All Want To Try Librarian's 'Jet'

By JACKIE MILLER

CHESANING (AP) — "Watch out, here she comes," warns a student as Mrs. Earl (Ruth) Nelson buzzes by on a bright yellow motor scooter called a Jet.

Mrs. Nelson is a librarian at Chesaning Union High School. She has served in that capacity for nine years and has been with the Chesaning school system for 25 years.

Her scooter, which is battery operated, and has three wheels, sports a loud horn too.

"It has black trim," she boasts.

Hurt In Fall

She just plugs in the scooter when she leaves at night and it's ready to go in the morning. One charging lasts eight hours. Mrs. Nelson fell in the lunch

MRS. EARL NELSON, librarian at Chesaning Union High School, had little trouble getting around after being injured in a fall. But then she made out fine on this three-wheeled scooter — until teachers and some of the students keep wanting to try it out. (AP Wirephoto)

Eight Michigan Soldiers Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight more Michigan men have died in combat in Vietnam, the Department of Defense reported Monday. They were among a list of 122 men killed in action and 66 men whose status was changed from missing to dead from hostile causes.

Listed killed in action were Marine Corps Lance Cpl. Douglas M. Fracker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton R. Fracker of Jackson; Marine Pfc. Marion F. Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Ferguson of Romulus; and Marine Pfc. Larry C. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McFarland of Flint.

Changed from missing to killed by enemy fire were Sgt. L.C. David A. Sanford, husband of Mrs. Marilyn A. Sanford of Livonia; Spec. 5. Alger L. White Jr., father of Stacy A. White of Bay City; Spec. 4. Frank Doezeema Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doezeema Sr., of Shelbyville; Spec. 4 Charles W. Permaloff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Permaloff of Detroit; and Pfc. Ronald L. Koch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Koch of Chelsea.

ORIGIN OF NAME

Actually, the barber got his name from trimming beards, since "barba" is Latin for beard. When men began to get their hair cut instead of their beards, the barber shifted to this job without changing his name.

The hall speedster is quite proud of her accomplishments with the scooter. She can go to the kitchen and see what's for lunch and has a little basket to carry books and mail in. "I can even open a door and go through by myself."

She revealed that she plans to use it for shopping when the weather clears as it can easily be taken in a car.

The other day Mrs. Nelson pushed one of the students, who is confined to a wheel chair, down the hall while riding her Jet.

The scooter was a Christmas present from her husband, a counselor at Owosso High School, who had seen a janitor there use one. "I make good use of it, I can really whiz around," she boasts.

Seek Larger Truck Limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Truck and bus operators urged the Senate Public Roads subcommittee Monday to approve legislation to increase weight and width limits for their vehicles on the Interstate Expressway system.

The bill, on which the panel opened public hearings Monday, is sponsored by 22 senators.

William A. Bresnahan, managing director of the American Trucking Association, said that "if transportation costs are to be kept in bounds, the cost of truck operation must be kept as low as possible."

He added that "more modern size and weight standards that will produce better payloads" are needed to accomplish that.

Charles A. Webb, president of the National Association of Motor Bus Owners, told the subcommittee that the present standards are more than 20 years old and "have been outmoded by improved highway construction and design."

H. Vance Greenslit, chairman of the board of Greyhound Lines, said the six inches of additional width permitted by the bill would make it possible to increase passenger comfort and safety.

Russia is designing fishing vessels that can cruise and fish without crew. The fully automated craft will be controlled by a mother ship miles away.

CORRECTION

A paid political advertisement in last evening's PRESS, printed over the name Albert Wilhelm, included some inaccuracies which need to be corrected.

The advertisement states: "The recent 14% hike on assessed property valuations gave the Public Schools added revenue . . ." This statement is completely false. The 14% referred to was only on city taxes, not school taxes. Heretofore, the City of Escanaba had levied its tax rate against the assessed valuation of property. Now the City levies against the state equalized valuation — or a 14% increase. School taxes have been levied against state equalized valuation throughout the State of Michigan since 1955. The Pittsfield Case, tried before the courts in that year, established this fact. So the recent increase in Escanaba City taxes has absolutely no effect on School District income, only on City income.

Ask Backing For School Help Bill

Catholics in the city of Manistique were urged Sunday to make known their support for a bill which will be introduced in the State Legislature in Lansing on Wednesday.

The bill deals with indirect aid to the non-public schools in Michigan. It would provide reimbursement to parents of students attending non-public schools at the rate of $50 for each elementary student and $100 for each secondary (high school) student.

Upon receipt of such payment, the parents would endorse the money to the school for their children were attending.

An Open Forum for all interested persons of Schoolcraft, Delta, Menominee and Dickinson counties will be held next Sunday at Holy Name High School in Escanaba. Rep. Charles Varnum and State Senator Thomas Schweigert have been invited to attend the meeting.

"Unless something drastic is done to implement our financial set-up, we can foresee a definite possibility of closing our school within the next five years", Father Dan Zaloga, assistant pastor of St. Francis de Sales, told parishioners at all masses on Sunday.

"I strongly urge you to write our congressmen urging their support of this bill".

St. Francis de Sales has an enrollment of 291 students and an operating budget in excess of $60,000 for the 1967-68 school year. Currently there are three lay teachers and five teaching nuns staffing the elementary school.

SHOWN ARE both sides of a silver dollar owned by Dick Nelson of Stevensville, Mich., who believes the coin is the only one of its kind in the world and therefore, priceless. Nelson, a coin collector, said he obtained the 1890 Morgan silver dollar at a Jackson, Mich., bank three years ago. The marks on the coin are actually raised pieces of silver caused by a broken die in the mint, according to Nelson. He said perhaps the coin escaped notice down through the years because those who handled it thought the marks were just scratches. (AP Wirephoto)

Shared Time Is Success At Flint

By BETTEY BRENNER

FLINT (AP) — A $400,000 educational center in Genesee Township stands as a monument to cooperation, determination and some rare circumstances.

The building is the center built by Holy Rosary Catholic Church for its high school and for community use. In it is operated the parochial half of one of the largest time programs in the country, possibly the largest.

About 200 boys and girls spend half their day at Holy Rosary, taking English, religion and social studies. They spend the other half at Kearsley High School, about a quarter mile away, taking subjects not available in their own school—courses which need expensive equipment such as laboratories and typewriters and in which religious viewpoints need not be taught.

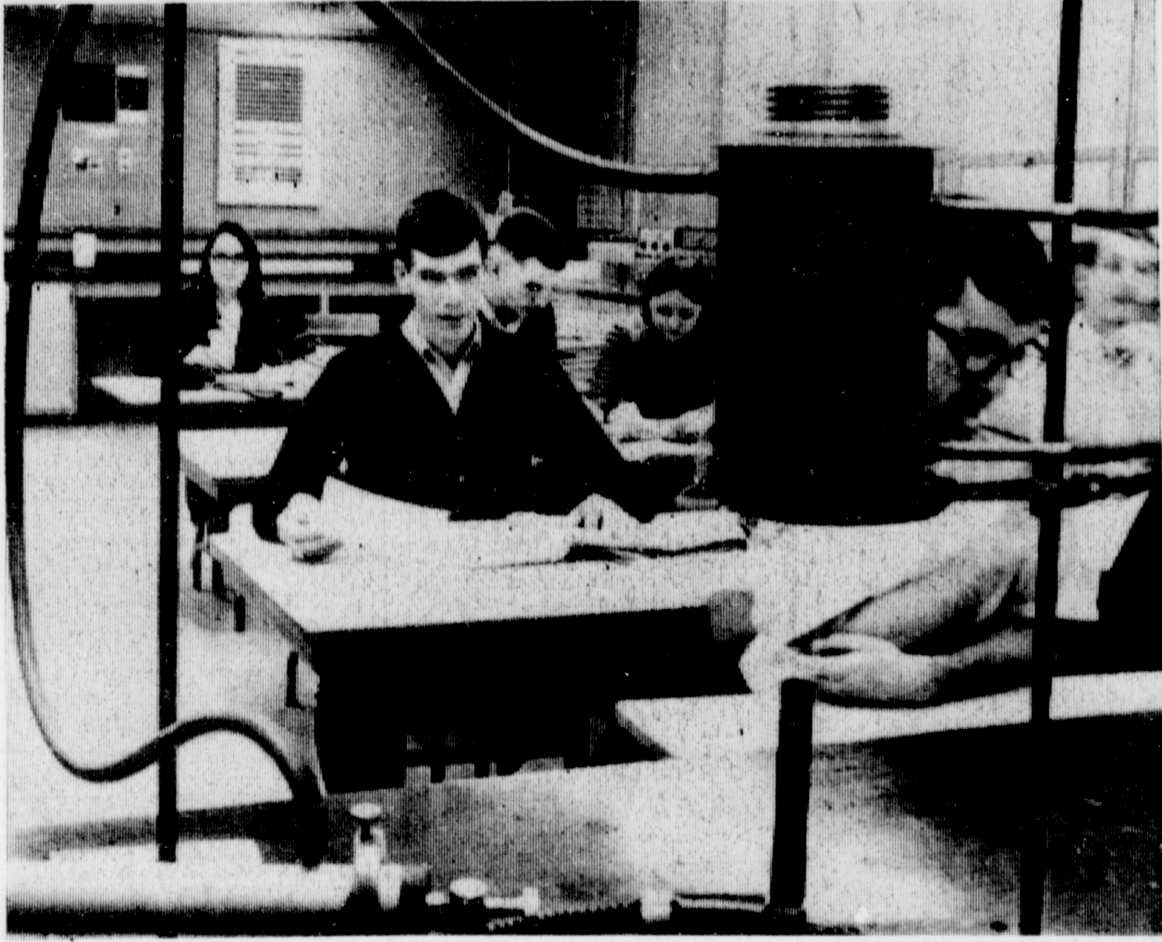

A slightly larger number do the same at George Daly Junior High School.

Like Concept

Holy Rosary parishioners like the shared time concept enough that they are paying their construction pledges well ahead of time.

George Daley, superintendent of Kearsley School District, and Patrick Fitzgerald, Holy Rosary school administrator, attest to the success of the program. Only minor problems have arisen and they have been worked out, they say.

And most of the students apparently like it, at least by the time they are in senior high. "I like going to school with the Kearsley students," said Steve Grimm, Holy Rosary student body president. "They're your neighbors."

But acceptance of the concept of shared time is far from unanimous, even among Catholic educators who might be expected to see financial benefits in it.

Special Factors

Ronald E. Rohman, assistant superintendent for high schools in the Catholic Diocese of Lansing, admits that shared time has worked well for Kearsley and Holy Rosary but argues that there are some special circumstances there.

One circumstance he cites is the willingness of both public and parochial officials to work out problems. Another is the fact that parish boundaries nearly coincide with school district boundaries, so that there are few children from another school district attending Holy Rosary.

A third, he admits, is that there is a high percentage of Catholics in the Kearsley School District — at last count, 35 per cent. In an area in which only a small percentage usually votes, a bloc of this size can swing the vote for or against millage requests by the public schools.

Two Catholics are on the school board.

Rohman said shared time was studied during planning for the two regional high schools which will replace all Catholic high schools in the county except Holy Rosary.

Most Schools Crowded

The findings at that time were that there was little financial gain in construction and operating costs because of fixed charges.

(Both Daley and Fitzgerald were surprised by this information and agreed that Kearsley pays for the more expensive portion of the curriculum.)

In addition, Rohman said, many public schools are so crowded they could not take on any more parochial students. At Kearsley this was not true; in a high school with about 1,404 pupils, a few more make little difference, Daley said.

"But how many public schools do you see asking for children?" he said.

House Moves To Cut Car Thefts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House moved Monday to cut automobile thefts by passing and sending to the Senate a bill to prevent indiscriminate mailing of master keys designed to open more than one car.

Action came by voice vote. The bill permits mailing of master keys only to such authorized users as locksmiths, government officials, car dealers, parking lot operators and automobile clubs or associations. It is aimed at mail-order sale of keys which authorities said are being used to steal cars. Some 650,000 cars were stolen in the United States last year.
